LONG'S GINNEY.
The Wheels of the Ginney and the Machinery of the Boiler Mill are Going Again.
Several days after the opening of the ginney season, the ginney of Long's Ginney and roller mill gave out, and a new one had to be put in. This change necessitated the temporary closing of the ginney. A new boiler is in position, steam is up, and the engine runs ginney and roller mill night and day. Those who would like to give a helping hand to a most enterprising man might give him a chance at ginning cotton and grinding grain. Long's Ginney is one of the best in the section. Mr. Long is one of the most enterprising citizens that Abbeville has ever had, and he deserves well of the community. He has a fine home, and after years of absence, he brought her back where she has been a source of delight to him. He is now in the magnificent residence that was built by Judge McGowan, and as he says today as they were at the wedding.
The Main Show Travels in Oriental Splendor.
The Walter L. Main show travels in a train of forty cars, divided into two and sometimes four sections. Each car is sixty feet long, or just twice the length of an ordinary car. This makes the show train equal in length to an ordinary train of eighty cars. All the sleeping cars and pullmans and Mr. Main's private car is always attached to the show train.
